St. Elizabeth of the Trinity

With gratitude, we acknowledge that we live and worship on the unceded territory of the Mi'kmaq.
May we honour this land with respect and live in peace and friendship with its people.

As for you my flock, I shall judge between one sheep and another.
Ezekiel 34.11-12,15-17

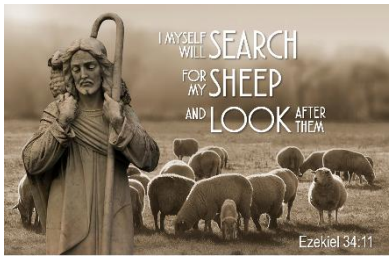
(1st Sunday of Advent)



We pray for the sick, and those who are awaiting or recovering from surgery, those receiving treatment and those needing strength including Joanne Bastarache, Trevor Droesbeck, Heather Sears, Sheldon Phaneuf Sr., Barry Cochrane, Dan Mahoney, Brenda Bleakney, Floyd Dykeman (brother of Herman) and Ramona Curtis Briffett; and for those who have died including Carl Thompson (brother of Eric);
and for those who mourn the loss of a loved one.

Thank you for all the personal well-wishing, cards, and gifts. Apart from the blitz on social media, billboards, radio and T.V. commercials, and AI deep fake news, I have no idea how so many people knew it was my birthday. It was all so appreciated. I'll use the chocolate to fatten up for the winter. You're the best.

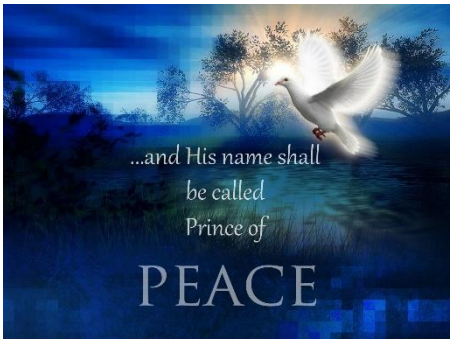
NONVIOLENCE: AN EXCESS OF LOVE

(Yearly, since 1982, September 21st is designated by the United Nations as World Day of Peace. The priest and theologian Emmanuel Katongole considers how nonviolence reflects God's love, modeled and experienced in the life of Jesus).

In a world addicted to violence, a commitment to nonviolence cannot but sound like both a crazy idea and a dangerous utopian fantasy…Our imaginations have been dulled into believing the inevitability of violence. We have come to think that only violence will either make us safe or prevent the bad guys from harming us and those we love.

This is a lie…I know this firsthand. I grew up in Uganda under the brutal dictatorship of Idi Amin (1925-2003). After my high school education, I decided to join the "liberation war" to fight Idi Amin. Looking back, I realize it was only God's grace that I was saved from this lie of liberation through violence, for the liberation was did indeed succeed in ousting Idi Amin from power. However, our "liberators" soon would turn into murderous dictators, and we needed another liberation war to get rid of the "liberators." This is a story that has been repeated all over Africa—fighting to end fighting…



God creates, governs, and redeems the world in a nonviolent way. This is what is unique about God, as we have come to know God through the life and ministry of Jesus Christ: an all-powerful (omnipotent!) God who becomes human and suffers a violent death on the cross; a God who responds to evil through the excess of love. This is the way of God, the strange logic of the Gospel. As Archbishop Emmauel Kataliko (1932-2000) reminded the Christians of Bukavu during a Lenten message in 2000: "The logic of the Gospel is a logic not of power, but of the cross. God has chosen the weak of the world to undermine the strong…The only response to the excess of evil is the excess of love." The excess of love is what shapes a revolution—a revolution of nonviolent love—into which God invites Christians. For, as Pope Francis reminds us, "The Son of God, by becoming flesh, summoned us to the revolution of tenderness…"

This revolution of nonviolent love is not a utopian fantasy. There are many stories of Christians whose lives bear witness to this revolution of tenderness and from whom we can learn the requirements of the way of nonviolence…

Archbishop Christopher Munzihirwa was pointing to this revolution when, shortly before he was assassinated, he reminded the people of Bukavu that every Christian is invited to enter "the way of Christ." For Munzihirwa, entering the way of Christ was not simply a pious exhortation; it was an invitation into a social vision and engagement that leads to "the construction of true and durable peace."

Surrounded by a cloud of witnesses, perhaps we too can dare to not only say no to violence but to respond to violence through an excess of love. When we do so, we find ourselves as part of the revolution of tenderness.

(Archbishop Christopher Munzihirwa was a Jesuit born in 1926 and murdered by Rwandan soldiers on October 29, 1996. His cause for sainthood, opened by Pope Francis, continues)

Did You Know?

God knows what we need before we even ask. Jesus tells us that we do not need to worry - that the spirit will be with us.
(p.264, SB 2024)
