Stewardship In the Holy Land are two ancient bodies of water. Both are fed by the Jordan River. In one, fish play and roots find sustenance. In the other, there is no splash of fish, no sound of bird, no leaf around. The difference is not in the Jordan, for it empties into both, but in the Sea of Galilee: for every drop taken in, one goes out. It gives and so it lives. The other gives nothing and it is called the Dead Sea.

Starting next week, you will see a regular feature in the bulletin simply entitled "Wish List." It will be a list of items, workshops, retreats, etc. that require some extra financial help for us to make them happen. It is simply making our needs known. This initiative is above and beyond the generosity you show in the general collection each weekend. As the adage goes, "If you don't ask, you won't receive." Not all the things itemized will you feel equally passionate about. Give to the ones you are passionate about. We don't expect any one person or family to cover the entire cost of anything you see on the wish list, but any contribution that helps defray the cost is most welcome. Thank you in advance.

ATTENTION THOSE IN GRADE 12! The GRAD MASS will be next Sunday June 10th at 10:30 a.m. at Immaculate Heart of Mary Church. Letters have been sent out regarding the details but if you know of someone who didn't receive a letter and should have, please call the Catechism office at 387-4198 or email Karen at ihmccatechism@rogers.com.

Exploring our Faith

"Christ is the mediator of a new covenant."

The way in which we celebrate the Eucharist today is steeped in a tradition that is described in today's first reading from Exodus, although you may not initially recognize it in the somewhat gruesome details of the story.

Moses builds an altar and gathers together the newly liberated Israelites. Representatives of the twelve tribes of Israel are invited to bring sacrifices for the burnt offering. Blood from these sacrificed animals is collected, some of which Moses sprinkles on the altar which represents God. Moses then reminds the people of all that God has done for them since the beginning of time and reads from the book of the covenant, the laws that God has given to them. The people listen closely and speak aloud their acceptance and commitment to God and his commandments.

As a seal upon this new covenant between God and his people, Moses then takes the remaining blood and sprinkles it on the people. The people then celebrate in thanksgiving and share a meal of the burnt offerings to solidify their bond with God and each other.

The people of Moses' time may not have had our modern understanding of human anatomy, but they knew that that when any living creature shed too much blood, its life would be lost. In Hebrew ritual and tradition, therefore, it was understood that the life of any being resided in its blood. Taking the blood of an animal was an act of finality and its "life-blood" was used to signify a bond of "life" between God (the altar) and God's chosen people.

All of this symbolism would have been understood by the Jewish disciples of Jesus as they celebrated the Passover meal. After all, the Passover meal was the celebration and renewal of that original covenant with Moses. They would have understood Jesus' reference to himself as the "sacrificed lamb" whose blood was to be the blood of a new covenant. This new covenant would cleanse humanity, as St. Paul writes to the Hebrews, "from the transgressions under the first covenant," so that a fresh, new relationship between God and his people could begin.

Just as Jesus' disciples were celebrating the covenant of Moses at Passover, we too, celebrate and renew the covenant made at the last supper of Jesus before his sacrifice and death each time we share in a Eucharistic meal. When we give thanks and then share in the body and blood of Christ, we take into ourselves the "life-blood" of Christ, allowing it to renew and transform us into a deeper relationship with God. To use a modern expression, "we become what we eat!" so that we become the voice, the hands and the heart of Christ for the world. Like the people of Moses' time, we voice our consent to this new covenant when we say, "Amen!" (I believe) before we "take and eat," and "take and drink." Each Eucharistic meal that we share, strengthens our bond to God and to each other.

As one of our communion songs proclaim, "Come join the feast! Take and believe! Become what you receive!"

Salt + Light

Since some of you were asking, here's a little blurb on Salt + Light Catholic Media Foundation. It started off very humbly in 1956 when Italian immigrant Gaetano Gagliano set up a small press in his basement, then called St. Joseph Communications. In 2003, at the age of 86, Gaetano founded, on the wings of World Youth Day in Toronto, yet another means of communication Salt + Light, Canada's first national Catholic 24-hour-a day digital cable television. Salt + Light's founding CEO is

Fr. Thomas Rosica. Under his guidance, Salt + Light has grown to more than 2.5 million viewers across this country, has produced some 40 documentaries, has launched a satellite radio program, magazine and numerous web-based initiatives including a blog and live stream that are view daily by people throughout the world. Because of the Trudeau Liberal's summer job and internship program that gives only to groups that support abortion, Salt + Light had $100,000 slashed from their operating budget, affecting 16 students majoring in media communications. You can check out all that Salt + Light offers at saltandlighttv.org. I personally enjoy and endorse Salt + Light and Fr. Rosica's efforts to use media to bring people closer to God and their Catholic faith.
