Exploring Our Faith

STAR OF WONDER

Epiphany (from Greek for "appearance") used to be one of the Great Feasts of the Liturgical calendar, along with Easter and Pentecost. The weeks following January 6th were called the Sundays "after Epiphany" and the season extended to Ash Wednesday. This is my excuse for still writing about Epiphany, the feast that traditionally celebrated St. Paul's mission to the Gentiles. Paul's mission was fiercely opposed by some of the other apostles who wanted to cling to the rites and traditions passed down from the Covenant with Abraham. But Paul preached a New Covenant to people who came to the truth by different routes.

Matthew tells us of the Magi who reported to King Herod that they followed a "star" which led them from East to West and then "stopped" (disappeared?). Questioned by Herod, they said it had appeared about two years before. These were men of "great" intelligence who knew the science of the day, which understood the universe as a great dome which moved around the earth with wonderful, understandable regularity. Then this "star" suddenly appeared and broke through the dome of the heavens and actually guided them toward Jerusalem. This unexplained event made them think a great king had been born.

How you look at something matters. Back in 1997, I stepped outside several times to look towards the North Star (which guides by staying still) and stare at the comet named for Hale and Bopp. It was visible to the naked eye for 18 months. Above is my drawing of what I saw. It was huge. It appeared to be pointing west and along with the sun it moved west. It made me think of the Magi and their "star", although the math puts our comet's last visit before Abraham's time. It did just appear and then after 18 months it disappeared. It made me believe that the star followed by the Magi was really real and made me believe that people of science searching for truth could find Christ.

Some 55 years ago I read a book by Pierre Teilhard de Chardin called, "The Phenomenon of Man". "Phenomenon" derives from the same Greek word as "Epiphany". I devoured the whole book all at once and then never went back to it. It settled down, deep in my mind. Teilhard was a Jesuit priest and a noted archeologist who discovered, in China, a skull of a "Missing Link" in the Evolution of Homo Sapiens (us). Not unlike the Magi who followed a star which pointed and moved, Teilhard saw evolution as an arrow pointing forward towards the "sapiens" side of us; or as he put it, our "noos". He posited as a scientist, not a priest, that the biosphere (our bodies) of our past would and always did evolve into a "noosphere" (our spirit). At the time his fellow scientists berated him and his Church distrusted him. He died long before the birth of the world wide web and electronic communications.

Is science not an attempt to understand the work of the Creator? Is the "noosphere" not a continuation of the evolution of thought, meticulously transcribed in the history of the People of God? The Epiphany has always been about the inclusion of all of us into the Revelation of God. The star led to the Child who shared His kinship with us so that we can be called "Children of God".

The End is Nigh of an Era: Exploring the Book of Revelations, Part 2

Can you provide further explanations of the many symbols in the Book of Revelations? How would events of different ages have lined up with passages from Revelation?

The continued conversation about the Book of Revelations will take place virtually on Tuesday, February 16th from 7:00 – 9:00 p.m. Join presenters, Dr. Fiona Black and Dr. Andrew Wilson as they answer questions which surfaced at the first session and dig a little deeper into the end of the world images we see in these passages. It is not necessary to have attended the first session to join us. Contact Ellen to register.

"We're All in this Together": Exploring Pope Francis's encyclicals, Laudato Si and Fratelli Tutti

In all his writing, Pope Francis calls us to see the world through a different lens, emphasizing the unconditional and unending love of God for all God has created and the importance of our connectedness with this creation. In Laudato Si', calling us to care for our common home, he states: "The urgent challenge to protect our common home includes a concern to bring the whole human family together to seek a sustainable and integral development, for we know that things can change." (LS#13) In Fratelli Tutti, on fraternity and social friendship, he says: "To care for the world in which we live means to care for ourselves. Yet we need to think of ourselves more and more as a single family, dwelling in a common home." (FT#17)

Lent is the Church's season of repentance and conversion. What better time to dig deeper into the message these two beautiful documents wish to share with us? Join Sr. Denise Lirette, fj and Dr. Andrew Wilson on February 18th, March 4th and March 18th from 7:00 to 8:30 p.m. as they share the message contained in these words of Francis, and explore with us, how we should respond. Given the fluidity of the COVID-19 challenges, we are uncertain at this time, whether these gatherings will be a hybrid of physical and virtual, or completely virtual. We'll keep you posted on that. For now, register with Ellen, and we will see where we are led.
