The St. Elizabeth of the Trinity parish grouping acknowledges that we carry out our worship and ministry on the traditional unceded territory of the Mi'kmaq and Wəlastəkwiyik (Maliseet) Peoples. This territory is covered by the "Treaties of Peace and Friendship" which these nations first signed with the British Crown in 1726.

The treaties did not deal with surrender of lands and resources but, in fact, recognized Mi'kmaq and Wəlastəkwiyik title and established the rules for what was to be an ongoing relationship between nations.

Items required sugar, mustard, mayonnaise, feminine hygiene products, shampoo, We could also use toothbrushes, toilet paper, and laundry soap. Thank you for your generosity.

Did you know? When we listen to God's words in our heart and speak God's words to others, we are doing what Jesus did. Jesus listened with compassion to other people's stories and spoke to them with love, the love of God the Father. We are called to do the same.

A lovely record of personal experience relevant for any denomination. Prayers are powerful and the prayers of a wife for her husband's highest good hold a loving and supportive perspective to a marriage. There are all sorts of jokes about wives

All are invited to celebrate the Episcopal Installation of the seventh Archbishop of Moncton, The Most Reverend Guy Desrochers, C.Ss.R on Wednesday, 18 October, at 3: 00 pm, in the Notre-Dame-de-l'Assomption Cathedral. All diocesans are strongly encouraged to attend the celebration on October 18th, to meet the new Archbishop and welcome him among us.

Exploring Our Faith

THE LORD'S VINEYARD

Today's reading from Isaiah (5.1-7) presents a very elaborate description -a metaphor- of a vineyard. Understanding metaphors involves interpretation. The readings in our liturgy always include three segments. There is immense complexity in the relationships among them and understanding requires an ability to interpret how they illustrate one another as well as a grasp of context.

In the gospel Jesus begins his parable by almost quoting Isaiah: "There was a landowner who planted a vineyard, put a fence around it, dug a wine press in it, and built a watchtower." The vineyard is not just a place to grow grapes but an entire business establishment for fermenting grapes and selling wine, and selling wine. In the liturgy of the past few weeks, vineyards are featured in several parables, and it is clear the business is a very profitable one, providing employment for workers and wealth for the owner.

Isaiah identifies the vineyard with the people God has created, the People of God. As a Christian theologian I know that I cannot "know" God, but my gift is to try to understand the people who wrote and passed down the Holy Scriptures: the historians and prophets and especially those writers who told us what Jesus taught. Mostly He taught in parables, so I try to understand how parables teach and guide us.

Isaiah's version of the vineyard teaches me that the distinction we like to make between God's Creation (the natural world, or "ecology" and human creation (the artificial or "economy") is simply invalid. Either the Creator makes everything, natural and artificial, or we don't believe in a Creator at all. A picture of God's creation can just as easily be a skyline of Toronto as of the Rocky Mountains. Athanasius said "We honour the Creator through His Creation." All of it.

Today's liturgy places a reading from Saint Paul's Letter to the Philippians between the two stories of the Vineyard. Paul says, "Do not worry about anything."

Do not worry about anything. Instead, fill your mind with the beauty of God's creation., whatever is true: Science, including Math, Physics, Biology.
whatever is honourable: the Law, civil, criminal, religious.
whatever is just: honest work and trade (the economy)
whatever is pure: children at play?
whatever is pleasing: music, dance, food and drink?
whatever is commendable: caring for the sick and poor, teaching.
"If there is any excellence, anything worthy of praise, think of these things."

To avoid worry is to think positively about any of the above human activities. Perhaps it is this admonition from Saint Paul that inspired the Church's deep commitment to schools and hospitals. To actively work at solving problems is a good way to avoid worrying about them.

In my opinion there are two very serious problems in our world: the continued enslavement of women in many societies and global warming. Both problems will be solved by the combined efforts of people who "in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God."

NETWORK WORKSHOP: POLARIZING WORLD & CHURCH – IMPACT AND OPPORTUNITIES ON MINISTRY WITH

YOUNG PEOPLE TODAY facilitated by Dr. Anne Walsh, will take place via Zoom on October 12th from 8:00 pm – 10:00 pm (Atlantic Time). What are we talking about when we use the word “polarization”? To live by the terms of polarization is to accept the perspective that there are only two poles to choose from, and to allow ourselves to be driven to an “either/or” way of looking at ourselves, society, the world, or the Church- the list could go on and on. This seems to have become more of an issue lately. It seems more and more challenging to bring together people together in respectful and honest dialogue and discernment. What examples from the life and ministry of Jesus might shed some light on this current experience? What values might need to be cultivated in order for us to build a world and a Church in which diversity is not a threat, but a source of encounter and richness? How can we build bridges, rather than walls? Join us for a lively exploration of this topic. For more information, contact Trevor at 857-4879 or trevord.diocese@gmail.com
