Jesus was speaking about the temple of his body John 2.13-22

We pray for the sick, and those who are awaiting or recovering from surgery, those receiving treatment and those needing strength including Trevor Droesbeck, Barry Cochrane (brother of Ken Cochrane), Joanne Bastarache (sister of Vic LeBlanc), and Cory and Donald Berubé and for those who have died

The Holy Spirit was active in the very creation of the heavens and the earth, breathing new life into our lungs and our world. Each breath and every step we take are gifts from God. If we live this way – as if all is a gift – our lives will be a thank-you to God. (p.211, SB 2025)

BOOK OF THE NAMES OF THE DEAD

During the month of November, a Book of the Names of the Dead will be placed in each of our churches for all parishioners to write in the names of deceased family and friends, who will be prayed for at each Mass during the month. Also, a table will be set up in each Church to display pictures of our dearly departed and candles will be lit for all at each Mass throughout November.

Remembrance Day marks the end of World War I hostilities on November 11, 1918. The war involved many countries, especially in Europe, with Canadian troops supporting the Allies. It caused significant loss of life and lasting emotional impact. Remembrance Day honors those who died in armed conflicts, especially since World War I. We thank veterans and their families for their sacrifice.

The parish office is closed to observe this holiday.

REFLECTIONS: LOOKING ALONG AND AT EVERYTHING

Reflections C.S. Lewis Institute

I was standing today in the dark toolshed. The sun was shining outside and through the crack at the top of the door there came a sunbeam. From where I stood that beam of light, with the specks of dust floating in it, was the most striking thing in the place. Everything else was almost pitch black. I was seeing the beam, not seeing things by it.

Then I moved, so that the beam fell on my eyes. Instantly the whole previous picture vanished. I saw no toolshed, and (above all) no beam. Instead I saw, framed in the irregular cranny at the top of the door, green leaves moving on the branches of a tree outside and beyond that, 90 odd million miles away, the sun. Looking along the beam, and looking at the beam are very different experiences. But this is only a very simple example of the difference between looking at and looking along. A young man meets a girl. The whole world looks different when he sees her... He is, as they say, 'in love'. Now comes a scientist and describes this young man's experience from the outside. For him it is all an affair of the young man's genes and a recognized biological stimulus. That is the difference between looking along the sexual impulse and looking at it.

it is perfectly easy to go on all your life giving explanations of religion, love, morality, honour, and the like, without having been inside any of them. And if you do that, you are simply playing with counters. You go on explaining a thing without knowing what it is. That is why a great deal of contemporary thought is, strictly speaking, thought about nothing — all the apparatus of thought busily working in a vacuum.

We must, on pain of idiocy, deny from the very outset the idea that looking at is, by its own nature, intrinsically truer or better than looking along. One must look both along and at everything... we must start with no prejudice for or against either kind of looking. We do not know in advance whether the lover or the psychologist is giving the more correct account of love, or whether both accounts are equally correct in different ways, or whether both are equally wrong. We just have to find out...¹

Any person can learn a good bit about Christianity from the outside, e.g., by reading the Bible, studying the history of the church and what Christians believe. These are good things. It is important to remember, however, that a Christian is someone who has been born again, and knows God personally as Savior and Lord. Let us seek to know Him more deeply.²

“And this is eternal life, that they know you, the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom you have sent.”

JOHN 17:3 (ESV)

We would like to acknowledge that we carry out our worship on the unceded, ancestral territory of the Indigenous peoples of Atlantic Canada, the Mi'kmaq and the Wəlastəkwiyik (Maliseet). Our relationship and our privilege to live on this territory was agreed upon in the Peace and Friendship Treaties of 1752, and so it is to be acknowledged that we are all Treaty people, having a responsibility to respect this territory.
