Saint Elizabeth of the Trinity

We acknowledge that we carry out our worship on the unceded, ancestral territory of the Indigenous peoples of Atlantic Canada, the Mi'kmaq and the Wəlastəkwiyik (Maliseet). Our relationship and our privilege to live on this territory was agreed upon in the Peace and Friendship Treaties of 1752, and so it is to be acknowledged that we are all Treaty people, having a responsibility to respect this territory.

As the Father has sent me, so I send you. Receive the Holy Spirit. John 20.19-23

Lord Hear Our Prayers

We pray for the sick, and those who are awaiting or recovering from surgery, those receiving treatment and those needing strength including Barry Cochrane, Sheldon Phaneuf Sr., Gordon Trail, Billy Brennan, Jean Paul Daigle, Joanne Bastarache (sister of Vic LeBlanc), Mary Lamey, Charles O'Hara (father of Teresa) and Grace Elderkin; and for those who have died including Tom Kavanaugh (brother of Al); and for those who mourn the loss of a loved one.

Did you know ? Jesus is the gate and all people are invited to enter through Him. There is no price of admission, participant profile, or prior requirement. We need simply to believe and enter. (p.184, SB 2024)

AT-ONE-MENT, NOT ATONEMENT

The common reading of the Bible is that Jesus “died for our sins”—either to pay a debt to the devil (common in the first millennium) or pay a debt to God (proposed by Anselm of Canterbury, 1033-2209). Franciscan philosopher and theologian John Duns Scotus (1266-1308) agreed with neither of these understandings.

Duns Scotus was not guided by the Temple language of debt, atonement, or blood sacrifice (understandably used by the Gospel writers and by Paul). He was inspired by the cosmic hymns in the first chapters of Colossians and Ephesians and the Prologue of John’s Gospel (1:1-18) and gave a theological and philosophical base to St. Francis’ deep intuition of God’s love. While the Church has not rejected the Franciscan position, it has been a minority view.

The many “substitutionary atonement theories”—which have dominated the last 800 years of Christianity—suggest that God demanded Jesus to be a blood sacrifice to “atone” for our sin-drenched humanity. The terrible and un-critiqued premise is that God could need payment, and even a very violent transaction, to be able to love and accept God’s own children! These theories are based on retributive justice rather than restorative justice that the prophets and Jesus taught.

For Duns Scotus, the incarnation of God and the redemption of the world could never be a mere mop-up exercise in response to human sinfulness but had to be the proactive work of God from the very beginning. We were “chosen in Christ before the world was made” (Ephesians 1:4). Our sin could not possibly be the motive for the incarnation—or we were steering the cosmic ship! Only perfect love and divine self-revelation could inspire God to come in human form. God never merely reacts, but supremely and freely acts—out of love.

Salvation is much more about at-one-ment from God’s side than any needed atonement from our side. Jesus did not come to change the mind of God about humanity (it did not need changing)! Jesus came to change the mind of humanity about God!

God in Jesus moved the people beyond the counting, weighing, and punishing model—which the ego prefers—to a world in which God’s mercy makes an economy of merit, sacrifice, reparation, or atonement both unhelpful and unnecessary. Jesus undid “once and for all” (Hebrews 7:27; 9:12, 10:10) notions of human and animal sacrifice (common in most ancient religions) and replaced them with an economy of grace and love.

Jesus was meant to be a game-changer for the human psyche and for religion itself. But when we begin negatively, or focus on a problem, we never get off the hamster wheel of shame, separation, and violence. Rather than focus on sin, Jesus—“the crucified One”—points us to a primal solidarity with the very suffering of God and thus of all creation. This changes everything. Change the starting point, and you change the trajectory, and even the final goal! Love is the beginning, the way itself, and the final consummation.

God does not love us because we are good; God loves us because God is good. Nothing we can do will either decrease or increase God’s eternal and infinite eagerness to love!
