Thank you all for the wonderful turnout, and special thanks to Fr. Eugene O'Reilly for the uplifting 4 evenings of fun, fellowship, and prayer. Your wit and humor brought great joy to the Saint Elizabeth of the Trinity community, while your fresh insights into God's love and dynamic spirit made the evenings truly memorable. We are deeply grateful for all you brought to our parish.

During the month of November, a Book of the Names of the Dead will be placed in each of our churches for all parishioners to write in the names of deceased family and friends, who will be prayed for at each Mass during the month. Also, a table will be set up in each Church to display pictures of our dearly de parted and candles will be lit for all at each Mass throughout November.

God is loving and kind. Allow every encounter with Him to bring restoration to all that needs healing in our own lives. (p. 255, SB 2024)

Growing and Waking Up

In the beginning, in our original un-woundedness ("innocence"), we lived in an unconscious state of full connection with the divine, like Adam and Eve walking naked in the garden with God. But it didn't take long for us to think of ourselves as separate, and from that position outside the garden, we grabbed for an autonomous identity. This is the "false self." Many people live most of their lives under this delusion and confuse this concocted persona as the real deal.

How do I get back to union and innocence? Objectively I have never left the state of union, but it feels like I have. We already and always have the divine image (imago Dei) within us; but we hopefully grow into the divine likeness (similitude) as we begin to externally resemble the goodness of God. It usually takes a long time to rediscover what has been true all along as we gradually find our unique way of embodying Love. Finding God and finding our True Self—which is letting go of our false self—are finally the same thing.

It's not about being privately correct; it's about being fully connected. It's not about fulfilling requirements; it's about a trusting relationship. It's not so much about what we do; it's about what God does. God and life itself eventually destabilize the boundaries of the small self so that we can awaken inside the Large Self. This usually happens through experiences of great love, suffering, or the forms of prayer that allow the private ego to collapse back into the True Self, where we gratefully shout with Jacob, "You were here all the time, and I never knew it!" (Genesis 28:16).

Our life is a dance between loneliness and desperation of the false self and the fulness of the True Self, which is re-discovered and experienced anew as an ultimate homecoming. The spiritual journey is a path of deeper realization and transformation; it is never a straight line, but a back and forth journey that ever deepens the conscious choice and assent to God's work in us. It is growing up, yes, but even more it is waking up. You can see why it will take us a year to even touch on this immense mystery.

(quoted from Fr. Richard Rohr)
